Andrew Webron Limited is committed to a programme of continuous improvement, pollution prevention and strict compliance with relevant legal and regulatory obligations.

This policy is appropriate to the organisation's activities, products and services that we provide.

We are constantly searching for ways to create a company that addresses the needs of the environment by developing systems and processes that reduce the impact upon the environment.

Our commitment consists of:

- Eliminating waste, pollution and emissions by redesigning our processes and products.
- Fostering a culture of continuous improvement and development.
- Reducing the energy demands of the business through more efficient processes and transportation.
- Introducing recycling activities.
- Conducting reviews of all significant environmental aspects arising from our operation and wherever practicable, to incorporate best available technologies in new developments.
- Make this policy available to other organisations and the community at large.
